PREFACE

Part of the mandate of the National Archives of South Africa includes the preservation of public and non-public records with enduring value for use by the public and governmental bodies. Public records are preserved as “archival groups”. The term refers to a body of archival records accumulated by a particular governmental body or part thereof in the execution of its functions and activities. Such records, which are assessed as having archival value, are transferred to the National Archives Repository for preservation, usually when they are twenty years old. Collections of non-public records are built up mainly through the donation of records of private individuals and organizations. An important task of the archivist is to arrange archival groups and collections and to describe them in finding aids.

Various finding aids are prepared to easy access to specific records or archival groups. Information on the archival holdings is being automated on an ongoing basis and placed in databases for on-line retrieval in a national automated archival information retrieval system (NAAIRS). NAAIRS generally provides access to specific individual records by means of keyword retrieval. The automated system is supplemented by different types of manual finding aids. The List of Archivalia provides a synoptic overview of the total holdings of the repository. The Guide to Accessions provides information on each of the collections of non-public records. The most basic and indispensable descriptive tool is the inventory, which contains an item description of each individual record within a specific archival group. This allows users to identify records that may be relevant to their research. The inventory also contains contextual information regarding the archival group, such as an administrative outline of the government body concerned, an overview of its contents and information on accessibility. A separate inventory is prepared for each archival group.

This inventory forms part of an ongoing series of improved inventories, which is being published by the National Archives of South Africa to assist users of archives. Details of published inventories are given in the List of Publications For Sale, which is available free of charge on request from the Publication Division of the National Archives, Private Bag X236, Pretoria, 0001. I trust that the series will serve to enhance the accessibility and convenient use of archives.

1. Administrative Outline

1.1 Introduction

The “Convention for a Democratic South Africa” or CODESA, in short formed part of a political negotiating process. CODESA, as a whole can be viewed in the following broad categories. Two major Plenary Sessions were held. The first was held on 20-21 December 1991 and the second on 15-16 May 1992. During the First Plenary Session, 5 initial Work Groups were established, each with their own Terms of Reference. At a later stage 2 new sub-committees were also established. These Work Groups met and negotiated frequently in the period prior to the Second Plenary Session, where they eventually delivered their reports on their agreements and recommendations.

1.2 Preparatory meetings

From 29 – 30 November 1991 Preparatory meetings were held at the Jan Smuts Holiday Inn, Johannesburg. 20 different parties attended these meetings. It was decided that the all-party process would be convened under the title “Convention for a Democratic South Africa” (CODESA). It was also agreed that the first meeting of CODESA would take place on the 20-21 December 1991 at the World Trade Centre in Kempton Park, Johannesburg. Issues on the first agenda were:

- the creation of the climate for free political participation
- general Constitutional principles
- constitution making body/process
- transitional arrangements/Interim Government/Transitional Authority
- the future of the TBVC states
- the role of the international community
- time frames with regard to all these processes
- implementation of decisions of CODESA
- other items to be identified by the Steering Committee and decided upon by CODESA

During the Preparatory meetings it was also decided that the original invitees would be invited to the first meeting of CODESA and that each participating organization would be entitled to a maximum of 12 delegates.

A Steering Committee comprising of one person from each of the participating organizations was established. Their tasks were to convene the first plenary meeting of CODESA, attend to outstanding items which featured on the agenda of the Preparatory meeting, the funding of CODESA, administration, standing rules, agenda for the first meeting, press and media and other items.

Mr Zac de Beer of the Democratic Party was elected to chair the Steering Committee.

It was further agreed that 5 international organizations would be invited to attend the first meeting of CODESA as observers.

It was also decided that decisions of CODESA would be taken by consensus and that where consensus does not exist, the principle of “sufficient consensus” shall be invoked. Another decision that was made was that all plenary sessions of CODESA would be open to the media.<sup>1</sup>

The Steering Committee, as established by the Preparatory meeting, held its first meeting on 4 December 1991. During this meeting decisions such as the allocation of tasks to subordinate groups (or Task groups) under the supervision of the Steering Committee and how to resolve deadlocks were discussed. The Steering Committee decided to form three Task groups that would be involved in the Organisation and Planning of CODESA 1 (20-21 December 1991). The portfolios allocated to the three Task groups were: Task group 1: Organisation and Planning; Task group 2: Drafting and Task group 3: Process.

- Task group 1’s responsibilities were w.r.t the arrangements of the venue, finances and invitations; it also had the responsibility of Security, Media and Communication and Protocol (that subsequently led to the establishment of s 3 sub-committees for these portfolios)
- Task group 2’s responsibilities were w.r.t. the Declaration of Intent (Purpose, goals and broad principles), the commitment of the Parties and the Government, standing rules and decision making.
- Task group 3’s responsibilities were w.r.t. the Agenda for CODESA 1, input on the identifying, assignments and functioning of possible Working Groups and additional items to be handled by the Steering Committee, mediation and facilitation.

During the first meeting the convenors of the Task Groups were chosen from members of the Steering Committee delegates. A proposal was adopted that each party participating in the Steering Committee, would have the opportunity to appoint one delegate each of the three Task groups.

A five-person secretariat was also appointed to oversee the provision of administrative services for the Task groups, the Steering Committee and the first plenary meeting of CODESA<sup>2</sup>.

1.3 CODESA 1: First Plenary Session

The First Plenary Session was held on 20-21 December 1991, at the World Trade Centre, near the Jan Smuts Airport in Johannesburg. Two judges, Piet Schabert and Ismail Mohamed were chosen to the chair of the Convention.

In the period prior to the First Plenary Session, Mr M Buthelezi and the IFP insisted that their delegation was not enough. They also requested two other delegations, one headed by the King of the Zulus and the other representing the KwaZulu administration, to be seated. No agreement was reached on this issue and the IFP and Mr Buthelezi chose to stay away. This resulted that the IFP did not sign the "Declaration of Intent". After certain amendments were made to the "Declaration of Intent", the IFP eventually did sign the declaration at the Second Plenary Session.

Friedman called the first day of the First Plenary Session, "a bland gathering", which consisted of a procession of speakers that read prepared speeches. According to Friedman the "centerpiece of CODESA 1 was the signing of a Declaration of Intent, consisting largely of vague statements of goodwill and designed primarily to avoid possibilities for disagreement...".

During the second day of CODESA 1, comments were delivered on the "Declaration of Intent. On the Agenda was also the formation of Working Groups and the decisions on what important items the Working Groups should negotiate.

During the session a Secretariat was elected for CODESA 2 and their task was allocated as to “attend to the day-to-day supervision and the creation of the necessary administrative capacity...”.<sup>3</sup> A management Committee replaced the old Steering Committee. Its mandate was to supervise the administration of CODESA, implement the decisions or agreements, create necessary sub-structures and supervise the work of the Working Groups. Its first meeting was held on 13 January 1992. On this occasion the Management Committee established the Daily Management Committee, which replaced the outgoing Secretariat.<sup>4</sup>

CODESA 1 appointed five working groups, whose tasks were to prepare for a second plenary and according to Friedman it was in these groups that the real bargaining was expected to occur.<sup>5</sup>

1.4 Working Groups

CODESA 1 and 2’s work was delegated to five working groups in which each participant or organization was represented by two delegates and two advisers. Their tasks were to reach agreement on key issues assigned to them and to compile a report, reflecting consensus to the next plenary. In response to complaints pertaining to the poor representivity of women during the convention, the CODESA also established a Gender Advisory Committee, whose structure was similar to the five working groups, to advise it on the gender implications of the Working Groups. The issues allocated to the five working groups were:

Working Group 1’s first assignment was for the: Creation of a climate for free political participation. Working Group 1’s second assignment was the Role of the International Community. Working Group 1 compiled a report to a CODESA 2 on its activities and sub-groups.<sup>6</sup>

Working Group 2’s assignment was “General Constitutional Principles”. Working Group 2 was unable to deliver a report to the Second Plenary Session, because no agreement on certain outstanding issues was reached.

Working Group 3's assignment was: Transitional arrangements/interim government/transitional authority. Working Group 3 compiled a report to CODESA 2 on its activities.<sup>7</sup>

Working Group 4's assignment was the Future of the TBVC States. Working Group 4 compiled a report to CODESA 2 on its activities.<sup>8</sup>

Working Group 5's assignment was: Time frames and implementation of CODESA decisions. This Working Group compiled a report to CODESA 2 on its activities.<sup>9</sup>

Except for the working groups, the Daily Management Committee was established to manage the convention as a whole. This committee was responsible for the settling of procedural disputes within the working groups. The Daily Management Committee in turn, as well as the Working groups was administered by a Secretariat.<sup>10</sup>

During the Management Committee's first meeting on 13 January 1992 a sub-committee investigating the participation of the King of the Zulus and Other Traditional Leaders was also appointed. The sub-committee was mandated to investigate and make recommendations to the Management Committee on an appropriate role in the negotiating process for the King of the Zulus and other Traditional leaders. It was decided that the sub-committee must report in advance of the CODESA 2.

During the meeting of the Management Committee on 10 February 1992, it was agreed that a sub-committee should be established to investigate amendments proposed by the IFP to the Declaration of Intent. This committee concluded its business on 9 March 1992.

The Gender Advisory Committee to CODESA 2, met for the first time on 6 April 1992. The committee was charged with the special task of looking into the Terms of Reference, minutes and decisions of each of the Working Groups, and those of the Management Committee and advising on their gender implications. The Committee handed in their report for the Second

1.5 CODESA 2: Second Plenary Session

The Second Plenary Session took place on 15 – 16 May 1992. During the first day the CODESA Working Groups reports were tabled. A summarized version of the reports was delivered during the first day. It was followed by a discussion on the agreements in the Working Group reports, an adoption of the agreements and a discussion on the outstanding matters from the Working group reports. These discussions continued on the second day.

During the second day certain resolutions were also adopted “on the way forward”. It was mandated during this meeting that to promote better co-ordination and improve efficiency, that the Management Committee suspend the work of the Working Groups, with the mandate to convene any Working Group, if necessary. The Management Committee was further given the responsibility to resolve any outstanding matters and examine the agreements of the Working Groups with a view to establish what would be done with regard to implementation of the adopted agreements.

1.6 The Post-CODESA Phase

The Post-CODESA phase was short-lived. Despite the establishment of several Sub-committees and Task Groups, and the allocation of tasks, all CODESA meetings were suspended at the end of June 1992. This decision was made after a request for the suspension of meetings by the ANC’s, due the unstable political situation in the country at that stage.<sup>12</sup>
