Disclaimer

- The list does not purport to include all available private researchers, but only those whose existence has come to the attention of the National Archives and Records Service (NARSSA).
- The onus to determine the nature of services provided by each private researcher rests with the potential client.
- This list does not constitute a certification, accreditation or approval of any of the private researchers by the NARSSA.
- The listing of contact details does not imply endorsement of the services of the private researchers nor does it imply a recommendation that the services of these private researchers should be procured. It also does not express any opinion regarding the quality of the services rendered by these companies/individuals.
- Any financial transaction between client and private researcher is solely the responsibility of the said two parties.
- The NARSSA will not become involved in any dispute which might arise between client and private researcher as the private researchers are in no way connected with the NARSSA.
